

Niland Prisoner Escapes, Arrest Two as Helpers

Charles Skillins and Frank Henry, colored, were brought to the county jail this morning by Constable Fritz of Niland and Deputy Sheriff Nier, on suspicion of having broken into the jail at Niland last night and released another negro who had been placed there early last evening.

According to Constable Fritz, the hole holding the door of the jail in place had been sawed through with a hacksaw and the prisoner was allowed to get away. Skillins and Henry were picked up this morning and questioned as to their movements last night. Henry claims to have just arrived in this county from the coast, while Skillins admitted having lived here four years. Both denied any knowledge of the jail break. They are held at the jail pending an investigation.

Bavaria Loses As Instigators Are Captured

defense today reported Von Kahr, former premier of Bavaria and a close friend of Ludendorff, had declined the offer of the Hitlerites to proclaim him dictator of all Germany.

General Von Lossow, whose action in administering an oath of loyalty to the state to the Reichswehr under him when he refused to be recalled by the central government, precipitated the breach between Bavaria and the rest of Germany, also has refused to serve, it was said.

Ministry of defense officials saw hope in this. If it meant these two men were opposing the Hitler coup they thought it might mean the blow would fall.

Berlin remained quiet early today. The coronation of troops with tanks posted about government buildings, were removed early in the morning. Heavy armed green police were on duty.

Many shops opened early for business as usual. Hitler's move came at a meeting in Munich, where Premier Von Knilling and some other ministers of the Bavarian government were present.

Hitler entered with his men and amid cheers took over the meeting. He announced he would march on Berlin.

He proclaimed Dr. Von Kahr national dictator, General Ludendorff military commander, Von Lossow minister of war, Von Zentner head of the federal police while he himself was to be director of national policy.

Hitler then drew further wild applause when he announced the whole government of the German republic, including President Ebert, deposed.

News of the Munich dictatorship, despite the rumors of the last few weeks, came as a surprise today. Speculation is rife.

Today speculation as to how far the Bavarian reactionaries would be able to go and who would join them in the rest of Germany if they started their march was the chief topic of conversation.

It was thought in Berlin that Hitler has sprung his coup a little ahead of plans. It had been rumored Von Kahr would proclaim a dictatorship Tuesday.

Von Kahr as well as Von Lossow, however, were authoritatively reported here today to have declared their agreement to affirm Hitler's move was forced from them.

Stoppage of communications between Berlin and Munich occurred almost at the time Hitler declared the government overthrown. The ministry of defense, as well as the foreign office, said they had no news either from Munich or the Bavarian border as to what had happened since.

Tells Court to Go Below, Given Extra Big Fine

Trying to be "smart" cost Ben Lopez $50 instead of $25, when he was arraigned before Judge Mayfield this morning charged with reckless driving. Following a plea of guilty, the court imposed a fine of $25. When a friend offered to pay Lopez' fine, the latter told him not to do it and consigned the court to the residence of Beelzebub.

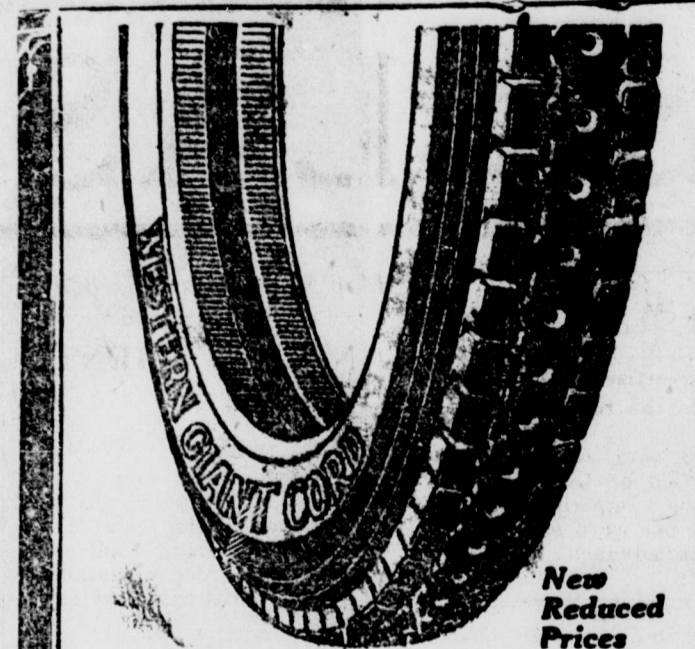

The court heard the remark and imposed an additional fine of $25 for contempt. Lopez was unable to pay the $50 and was taken to jail.
